SPECIAL NOTICE: It has come to the attention of the Executive Council that the report of the House of Representatives Committee on Appropriations Hearings of July 31, 1969, released in printed form October 27, 1969, pp. 1709 – 1710, includes as item "A":

"Latin American Studies Association, $ 75,000. Government Affairs Committee to work up staff guidance and counseling function to assist Bureau. (Modified SEADAG approach)."

A later entry states:

"The organization has agreed to cooperate with SCD in helping to meet the above needs."

The Executive Council, with the assistance of concerned members, has thoroughly investigated the history of the statements in question and asserts categorically that neither the Government Relations Committee nor the Executive Council proposed any projects or requested any funds. In reply to a LASA request for an explanation, a letter dated November 4, 1969, was written by ROBERT E. CULBERTSON, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Social and Civic Development, whose office was responsible for inserting the item in question, to the President of the Latin American Studies Association. The letter states that:

"The LASA item was included in the list without consultation with representatives of LASA. We did not regard this as necessary since LASA had not made a request for such assistance, nor had AID made any corresponding offer."

The letter further states:

"You may thus be assured that there is at this time no understanding, no project, nor a commitment of any kind on the part of AID to LASA or vice versa."

LASA COMMITTEE ON SCHOLARLY RESOURCES COMPILATES PUBLICATIONS MANUAL: The Committee on Scholarly Resources of the Latin American Studies Association is cooperating with the Hispanic Foundation, under the guidance of DR. HOWARD F. CLINE, to develop and publish a technical manual to aid college and university librarians engaged in building basic Latin American collections for teaching purposes. Compilation of the guide has been based on reading lists of publications used in courses submitted by professors of Latin American courses.

Further information will be released through the Newsletter.

HANDBOOK OF LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES: The Hispanic Foundation in the Library of Congress announces No. 30 in its annual series, the Handbook of Latin American Studies. The volume reviews books and articles in the humanities, from and about Latin America, and is priced at $25.00. In addition, the Hispanic Foundation has published a highly useful Author Index to the Handbook Numbers 1-28, 1936-1966. The Author Index includes references to some 50,000 people who have written books or articles about Latin America over the past thirty years. It is also priced at $25.00. A CENTER FOR LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES has been created at California State College at Long Beach. THEODORE E. NICHOLS, Professor of History, has been appointed Director. CSCLB, with 28,000 students, is the largest of California's nineteen state colleges, and has long had an interest in Latin American studies. The initial project of the Center is the sponsorship of an interdisciplinary program leading to a Certificate in Latin American Studies. Brochures describing this program will be mailed later this year. For further information, please write to the University.

HAMLINE UNIVERSITY: Hamline University has received a grant from the Louis W. and Maud Hill Family Foundation of St. Paul to establish an International Studies Center at the College. The Center, established in September, 1969, is directed by DR. WESLEY ST. JOHN, Professor of Political Science at Hamline.

The Center will enable Hamline to significantly expand existing programs in international education and to create a variety of new on- and off-campus study opportunities and overseas study projects. A major objective of the Center will be to emphasize and relate the contributions of various academic disciplines to the study and comprehension of international affairs.

The Center will also provide guest living facilities for international visitors and scholars and specialists from other countries whom Hamline, under the grant, will bring to the campus for short-term teaching posts and special lectures.

NEW LATIN AMERICAN PROGRAM FOCUSES ON CONTEMPORARY CUBA: A program for the study of revolutionary Cuban political, economic, social and cultural life is now underway at the University of Pittsburgh. Entitled "Cuba: A Decade of Revolution, 1959-1969," it consists of a series of public lectures, films, plays, and an interdisciplinary course, "Socialist Cuba." The program is sponsored by the Center for Latin American Studies under a grant for the University Center for International Studies, with support from the Pitt Student Union.

The Lecture series is open to the general public as well as the University community and is presenting well-known specialists from throughout the country. The speakers, all of whom have published books on Cuba and have done field research there, represent differing ideological viewpoints.

The Hillman Library at the University of Pittsburgh has been developing a substantial Cuban collection which is now estimated to be the fourth largest in the country. It contains more than 2,500 books dealing with revolutionary Cuba, as well as 34 Cuban journals; the Latin American bibliographer, EDUARDO LOZANO, has exerted great efforts to acquire these holdings and is now in the process of purchasing current periodicals through the Instituto del Libro in Havana, and in importing books from Cuba under authorization recently obtained from the United States Government.

VILLA JONES: Word from DR. ROBERTO C. JONES, Director of Villa Jones — a Mexican-American cultural center in Mexico City, which performs valuable services for visiting scholars — is that the support which the center has been receiving from USIS is going to be discontinued for budgetary reasons, thus making continuation of the center problematical. Accordingly, Dr. Jones is appealing for help from Latin Americanists, both those who have used the center’s services in the past and those who have not, but wish to express their support, for any contributions they can make available. The address of the Villa Jones is Chilpancingo 23, Mexico 11, D.F.

SLAVIC BIBLIOGRAPHY: As part of the growing links of communication to facilitate scholarly research in all parts of academia, the Latin American Studies Association would like to announce that the American Association for the Advancement of Slavic Studies is compiling a bibliography, The American Bibliography of Slavic and East European Studies.

The Bibliography attempts to chronicle American and Canadian scholarship in all disciplines related to Eastern Europe. It tries to include all the scholarly production published in the United States and Canada and all of the work of scholars resident in these countries published anywhere in the world in a given year. There are no restrictions on the language of publication.

For the purposes of the Bibliography, Eastern Europe will be defined as the Soviet Union (including the Baltic States and Soviet Central Asia), Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Greece, Turkey, Albania, and Finland. Work in the politics, economics, and government of the German Democratic Republic is also included. The editors are also eager to include studies dealing with the relations of the Eastern European nations with other areas of the world as well as comparative studies involving Eastern Europe.

In order to gather material for the Bibliography, approximately 500 American and European journals and series are searched on a regular basis (a partial list can be found in the most recent issue of the Bibliography). Scholars working in any field who have published work involving Eastern Europe are requested to send copies or bibliographic data relating to their publications, especially those published in Eastern Europe or in journals not regularly checked, to the Editor: PROFESSOR KENNETH E. MAYOR, The American Bibliography of Slavic and East European Studies. The Ohio State University, 1841 Millikin Road, Columbus, Ohio 43210.
