Hold On to Your Hats–It’s a Whirlwind Congress!

As this Forum goes to press, the LASA2000 Miami Program Committee and staff are hard at work getting the pieces in place for what may be the largest yet of LASA’s International Congresses! Over 4,000 people are expected to attend, and LASA once more will distinguish itself as having among the highest ratios of participants to members--and of participants to attendees--of any similar association. LASA’s expenditure of more than $200,000 to assure that colleagues from the regions of its interest can participate via travel grants is unprecedented among area studies associations worldwide.

The final program booklet is targeted for mailing by the end of January to all LASA members and preregistered nonmember LASA2000 participants whose forms and payments are received by the Secretariat on or before January 31, the deadline for preregistration. Look for yours in the mail. Remember to take your copy! Replacement copies will cost $10 in Miami, if available.

Please recall that all LASA2000 attendees must be registered for the meeting and wear their badges at all times. Failure to do so will significantly restrict your movements. These meetings are costly, and LASA depends on each and every person attending to help support the costs of the Congresses.

As we knew they would, hotels are filling up fast, and some may be full already. Be sure to reserve a room just as soon as you can. See LASA’s Internet site, or your preregistration packets for forms and information. Reservation cutoff dates are in early February, a deadline after which hotels reserve the right to charge the rates the market will bear.

Paper presenters have special responsibilities to their colleagues. Because there will be more than 40 sessions nearly around the clock for three whole days, making it impossible for all your interested colleagues to hear your presentation, copies need to be made available at the meeting. Please see "Instructions for Paper Presenters" later in this section.

There are other things to note through these pages. See if your publisher has a booth, and what you might be able to do about it for future meetings, if not. Look for information about the welcoming reception, the gran balle, and other events.

Finally, there is an up-to-the-minute schedule of Congress sessions. Immediately following is an article on Miami by Tammy Bowers, LASA2000 local arrangements staff coordinator. Thanks, Tammy, and enjoy, everyone!

Miami... A Crossroads of Culture

By Tammy A. Bowers

LASA2000 will be held in Miami, a city whose airport (MIA) is familiar to any scholar en route to Latin America or the Caribbean. On any given day, over 200 flights depart MIA to some destination in the region, more than any other single airport in the Americas. LASA2000 will mark the first time that many Latin Americanists venture beyond the airport to explore this complex city, perhaps the most Latin American of all U.S. urban areas.

Although still characterized by the strength of its Cuban exile community, in the 1990s Miami’s population has grown to include thousands of Argentines, Bolivians, Colombians, Haitians, J amaicans, Nicaraguans, Peruvians, Puerto Ricans, Venezuelans and others. The city’s neighborhoods reflect this diversity. Little Havana has been joined by Little Haiti; Sweetwater has a large Nicaraguan community; Kendall is home to Colombians and Peruvians, and Coral Gables to Cubans.
Miami is not a microcosm of the American city. It never was...Miami has become the nation’s first full-fledged experiment in bicultural living in the contemporary era. Other U.S. cities, such as New York and Los Angeles, also have large Spanish speaking and immigrant populations, but nowhere has the social and economic weight of the newcomers or their political significance been greater than in South Florida.¹

Miami’s multicultural experiment holds significant lessons for cities throughout the Americas. This diverse city, known as the "gateway to the Americas," is an especially appropriate setting for LASA’s XXII International Congress.

History and Diversity

Miami celebrated its centennial anniversary in 1996, but the city we know today has a much more recent history. Incorporated in 1896 after Henry Flagler and Julia Tuttle brought the first rail line to South Florida, Miami was carved out of the subtropical wetlands to become a sustainable community.

As is still the case today, in the early 1900s Miami relied on tourism as the mainstay of its economy. The Depression, World War II and several major hurricanes virtually shut down the tourism industry, hitting Miami hard. Eventually, visitors made their way back to "America’s Sun Porch," still a relatively small community, and the city’s economy again found stable footing.

In the second half of the twentieth century, Miami’s history has been inexorably linked to U.S. foreign policy experiments in Latin America and the Caribbean and to fluctuations in the domestic politics of nearly every country in the region. As Stack and Warren state, "Geopolitically, economically, and culturally Miami is more closely connected with the Caribbean and Central America than with Florida’s capital, Tallahassee."²

The first major influx of Cuban immigrants in the early 1960s marked a turning point in Miami’s contemporary history. In 1960, Hispanics comprised only 5 percent of the population of Greater Miami (now known as Miami-Dade County). By 1990, they accounted for almost half, and of this total, 60 percent were Cuban. About 45 percent of the city’s population is foreign-born, the highest proportion of any major metropolitan area in the county. Never in the history of the United States has a large city undergone such a radical change in its ethnic composition in such a short period of time.³

The Mariel boatlift in 1980 brought 125,000 Cubans to Miami’s shores. The balsero crisis, beginning in 1991 and culminating in September 1994, and the subsequent emptying of the Guantánamo Naval Base refugee camp brought another 40,000 Cubans to the city. Today, nearly 60 percent of the approximately 1.1 million Cubans in the United States live in Miami-Dade County.

Since the mid-1970s, however, the county’s non-Cuban Hispanic population has grown more rapidly than its Cuban population. The political turmoil in Central America in the late 1970s and 1980s resulted in a massive wave of immigration into Miami from Nicaragua and elsewhere in that region. Also in the 1980s, the socio-political crisis in Peru resulted in the arrival of thousands of Peruvians, who settled in the southwestern portion of the county. Today, Colombians fleeing the violence and turmoil in their country represent the newest wave of arrivals.

Immigrants from the non-Hispanic Caribbean also have a significant representation in Miami-Dade County. More than 56,000 Haitians and 34,000 Jamaicans live in the Miami metropolitan area. Haitian migration to South Florida began in earnest in the 1980s, when many refugees risked the perilous sea crossing on homemade boats. Seen as economic refugees, Haitians have battled unforgiving U.S. immigration policies for the right to remain in this country.⁴

In addition to these groups, non-Hispanic whites account for about 25 percent of Miami-Dade County’s population, with African-Americans comprising 21 percent. Altogether, the greater Miami area is home to approximately two million people.

Miami’s Neighborhoods

Miami-Dade County is comprised of 30 incorporated municipalities (the City of Miami is the largest, with approximately 300,000 residents) and unincorporated Miami-Dade County. An executive mayor, Alex Penelas, and the Miami-Dade Board of County Commissioners are in charge of the county government.

Downtown. The LASA 2000 meeting will take place at a group of four hotels in downtown Miami within walking distance of visitor attractions. Close by is Biscayne Boulevard, the main avenue running through downtown, and Bayside Marketplace. This open-air shopping complex is right on the bay and offers specialty shops, sit-down restaurants such as the Hard Rock Café and Los Ranchos (a Nicaraguan steakhouse), and live entertainment.

One of downtown’s most recognizable monuments is Freedom Tower. Originally built in 1924, the city’s first skyscraper is now empty but still serves as a beacon for immigrants coming to Miami’s shores.

The Metro-Dade Cultural Center in downtown Miami includes the Miami-Dade Public Library (the largest in the southeastern U.S.), the Historical Museum of Southern Florida, and the Center for the Fine Arts in independent buildings surrounding a central plaza.
The ornate Gusman Center, originally built in the mid-1920s as the Olympia Theater, offers a wide selection of performing arts, from stand-up comedians to classical music.

Downtown restaurants offer every type of international cuisine. For a Brazilian feast, visitors can walk to Pórcão Churrascaria on Bayshore Drive. This rodizio-style restaurant serves endless helpings of the finest meats directly from the skewer to your plate.

Miami Beach/South Beach. Miami Beach is an island city, an incorporated municipality in Miami-Dade County with its own governing structure. The white-sand beaches, clubs and shopping that have made Miami Beach famous reflect South Florida’s tropical lifestyle. Trendy South Beach is a mile-long stretch on the southern coast of Miami Beach. It encompasses the Art Deco District, a group of more than 800 buildings designed in this colorful architectural style. The area has recently become a movie-making mecca, acting as the setting for hits such as “The Bird Cage” and “There’s Something About Mary.” South Beach has always been and remains a headquarters for some of the world’s top modeling agencies, a place where the “beautiful people” go to see and be seen.

The beaches are crowded with tourists year-round. Penrod’s on the Beach rents lounge chairs for $5 and umbrellas for $10, providing welcome shelter from the tropical South Florida sun. Across from the beach are the sidewalk cafes of Ocean Drive, South Beach’s main drag.

At night, South Beach comes alive. Chic restaurants offer a wide variety of fare, including Cuban cuisine at Gloria Estefan’s Lario’s on the Beach and tropical favorites at Ricky Martin’s Casa Salsa. South Beach also has one of the hottest club scenes in the world, featuring Latin beats and the trendiest new fashions. From smoky jazz clubs to Caribbean steel drum bands, the nightlife of South Beach cannot be rivaled.

Miami’s multicultural experiment holds significant lessons for cities throughout the Americas.

For an old-fashioned night of dinner and dancing, the classic venue is Club Tropicana at the famous Fontainebleau Hilton on Collins Avenue. Miami also offers a taste of old Havana at Café Nostalgia, with locations on Miami Beach and in Little Havana.

Those in search of art and culture will find much to do on Miami Beach. The Jackie Gleason Theater hosts the Broadway Series and other top-name entertainment. Likewise, the Lincoln Theatre holds many cultural events and is home to the New World Symphony. For the visual arts, a top attraction is The Wolfsonian, founded in 1986 to promote the collection, preservation, and understanding of art and design from the period 1885-1945. In 1997, the museum joined the state’s public education system as a division of Florida International University.

Coral Gables. The City of Coral Gables was incorporated in 1925 by land developer George Merrick. It has since grown to become one of the premier communities in South Florida. Many of the buildings and areas in Coral Gables are meticulously preserved as historic landmarks.

Coral Gables is a shopper’s dream. Miracle Mile, the main thoroughfare through the city, is lined with exclusive designer boutiques and specialty shops. The area also boasts a wide variety of fine dining.

The Biltmore Hotel is one of the most famous and stately structures in Coral Gables. Like much of the architecture in the area, it was built in Spanish style. The Biltmore played host to royalty, both Europe’s and Hollywood’s, during its heyday in the 1920s and 30s. The hotel counted the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, Ginger Rogers, Judy Garland, Bing Crosby, Al Capone and assorted Roosevelts and Vanderbilts as frequent guests. During World War II, it was converted into a hospital and served as the first site of the University of Miami’s School of Medicine. It later fell into decline, until the City of Coral Gables oversaw its full restoration as a grand hotel in 1983. The Biltmore’s history and intrigue, as well as spectacular swimming pool, golf course and stylish restaurants, make it a must-see on any visit to Miami.

Coconut Grove. First settled in the 1860s along south Biscayne Bay, Coconut Grove incorporated in 1919 and became part of Greater Miami in 1923. Bahamian immigrants settled in the area to build the town and remain a strong cultural presence. Today, Coconut Grove is one of the oldest and most eclectic neighborhoods in Miami-Dade County.

A top attraction in Coconut Grove is the Vizcaya Museum and Gardens, a 70-room, Renaissance-style mansion built by millionaire James Deering in the early 1900s. Miami-Dade County bought the property in 1952 and opened it to the public as a museum. It houses a fabulous art and furniture collection and the perfectly manicured gardens offer an unparalleled view of Biscayne Bay.

The heart of Miami politics, Miami City Hall, is located on Dinner Key in Coconut Grove. The building was originally an aviation training base for the Navy during World War I. In 1936, it became the base of operations for Pan American World Airlines, which sold it to the City of Miami in 1946. The building was a restaurant until it was converted to its present use in 1954.

Coconut Grove is home to one of Miami’s nightlife hotspots, Coco Walk and the Streets of Mayfair. This area of upscale shops and boutiques is a mix of casual outdoor cafés and formal, candle-lit restaurants. It is also popular for its theaters, cinemas, comedy clubs and street artists.

Several annual events attract visitors to Coconut Grove. The Coconut Grove Arts Festival will take place on February 19-21, 2000, celebrating its 37th year. This huge street fair features hundreds of artists from around the world. The annual Taste of the Grove offers delicious food prepared by Miami’s finest restaurants, and the Goombay Festival in June celebrates the area’s Bahamian heritage.

Other Neighborhoods. Little Havana takes its name from the many Cuban immigrants who originally settled in the area. This is the place to come for cafeterias offering Cuban coffee and medianoche sandwiches. Cigar shops and men in guayabera shirts playing dominoes and talking about old Cuba are common sights in this community. Versailles is one of Little Havana’s legendary Cuban restaurants, offering such favorites as ropa vieja and picadillo.

Calle Ocho, or Eighth Street, runs through the heart of Little Havana. This thoroughfare is much more than just a street. Every March, traffic is blocked off to host the Calle Ocho Festival, which marks the end of Miami’s Carnival festivities. Attendance in recent years has been estimated at one million people, making this the country’s largest block party.

Another ethnic enclave in Miami is Little Haiti. South Florida’s Haitian immigrants have made this area their home, building the Caribbean Marketplace to resemble the Iron Market in Port-au-Prince. The Little Haiti Library offers books on Haiti and the Creole language, and local restaurants serve spicy Haitian specialties.

Higher Education

Miami’s diverse population is served by an impressive range of institutions of higher learning. Private schools include the University of Miami, Barry University, St. Thomas University, Nova Southeastern University and Florida Memorial College. Florida International University is South Florida’s largest public university and offers a strong program in Latin American studies, under the leadership of the Latin American and Caribbean Center. Another option for public education is Miami-Dade Community College.

Miami’s ethnic and cultural diversity, coupled with its unrivaled tropical atmosphere, make it a city unlike any other in the United States. Given its proximity to Latin America and the Caribbean, Miami is a logical place to gather for the world’s largest conference on the region. Those interested in studying this part of the world will find its history, politics, language and culture imprinted on this diverse and exciting city.

Congratulations on your acceptance as a presenter in LASA2000!

All members of your panel, especially discussants and chairs/organizers, should have a copy of your paper in hand well before the meeting. See contact information on your acceptance letter. You also need to make sure that copies of your paper are available for general distribution to Congress attendees and LASA members during and after the meeting. Please read these instructions carefully to find out how. Papers may be in English, Spanish or Portuguese.

Paper Specifications
Manuscripts should be printed on white paper, with dimensions as close to 8 1/2" x 11" as possible. It is important that they are single-spaced, and double-sided. Suggested length is 20-25 pages (10-13 individual sheets double-sided). The cover page should carry the title, author's name and affiliation, and the following (in English, Spanish, or Portuguese): "Prepared for delivery at the 2000 meeting of the Latin American Studies Association, Hyatt Regency Miami, March 16-18, 2000."

Deadline for Submission of One Copy of the Paper to the Secretariat
An original copy of your paper should reach the LASA Secretariat by March 2, 2000. Send to: LASA, 946 William Pitt Union, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh PA 15260. As it has done for several years, LASA will fill requests for papers after the meeting, using this master copy.

On-site Papers
Each paper presenter should make sure that 40 (forty) copies of his or her paper reach the LASA paper distribution area at the Hyatt Regency Miami, the headquarters hotel. There are three ways for doing so:

Option 1
LASA and Kinko's Copy Centers have negotiated an agreement offering paper presenters discounted prices for copying and free delivery to the Hyatt Regency Miami. If you choose this option, submit one copy of your paper to Kinko's, accompanied by the enclosed order form and appropriate payment by February 21, 2000 to qualify for the highest discounted rates (see the form for additional information and other discount deadlines). Kinko's will confirm receipt of your original and will deliver the 40 copies directly to the LASA paper distribution area by March 14.

Option 2
Mail 40 copies of your paper to the Hyatt Regency Miami. Here are the rules the hotel has set out:

1. All packages sent must have postage or shipping costs already paid by the sender; any packages the hotel is being asked to pay for will be refused. The Hyatt Regency Miami has agreed to receive and store up to ten (10) boxes per person. A fee of $5.00 will be charged for each box over the limit of ten.

2. Packages must be addressed as follows:

   The Hyatt Regency Miami
   Receiving Department
   400 S.E. 2nd Avenue
   MIAMI FL 33131-2197
3. Packages must be clearly marked elsewhere on the box as follows:

   LASA2000 PANEL PAPERS
   Hold for Arrival of LASA Staff Member
   Arrival Date: March 14, 2000
   Hotel Contact: Denise Harden, CS Manager

4. Packages must have return address of sender.

5. Papers should arrive at the Hyatt Regency Miami no earlier than March 1, 2000, and no later than March 14, 2000, to assure proper distribution.

Option 3)

You may hand-carry your 40 copies to the meeting and deliver them directly to the panel paper distribution area in the Hyatt Regency Miami, which will be clearly marked.

If you are NOT planning on arriving at the meeting by the morning of the first day of the meeting, Thursday, March 16, we encourage you NOT to hand-carry (use a previous option); attendees often are frustrated by having to make several visits to the paper sales area in order to obtain papers that arrive after the morning of the first day.

Photocopying at the Congress

No photocopies of papers will be made by LASA at the LASA2000 site. There are copying services in the Business Center of the Hyatt Regency Miami, lobby level. For less expensive copies, try the Brickell Avenue Kinko’s. Turn right after you exit the front entrance of the Hyatt Regency Miami and walk a short distance to 600 Brickell Avenue.

Electronic Papers

In its attempt once again to make scholarly papers presented at LASA Congresses as widely and economically available as possible, the Association has committed to putting on line several papers from LASA2000, accessible from the LASA website. (Check http://lasa.international.pitt.edu to find links to more than 750 on-line papers from LASA97 and LASA98).

We are asking LASA2000 paper presenters to take a 3.5 inch, high-density virus-free diskette to the Miami meeting, along with one hard (paper) copy of the contents of the diskette itself. Someone will be at a table near the paper distribution area to receive the diskette and paper. Please cooperate with this effort to make your research known to as broad an audience as possible.

Diskettes with one of a variety of software languages may be submitted. The list follows. Be sure that the diskette is 3.5 inch (other sizes cannot be accepted), high-density, and that the disk itself is LABELED with the author's name and email address or phone number.

For a PC: Ami Pro 2.0, 3.x; AppleWorks 5.0; ClarisWorks 1.0, 3.0, 4.0, 5.0; DCA/RFT; Multimate 3.x, 4.0; MS Word DOS 5.5; MS Word Windows 2.0, 6.0, 7.0, 8.0, 2000; MS Works 2.0, 3.0, 4.0; PerfectWorks 2.1; Text; WordPerfect 5.1, 6.x; WordPerfect Windows 5.x, 6.x, 7.0, 8.0; WordPerfect Works 2.0; WordStar (DOS) 5.5, 6.0, 7.0; Word Pro 96, 97, 98.

For a Mac: AppleWorks 5.0; ClarisWorks 1.0, 2.x, 3.0, 4.0, 5.0; MacWrite II; MacWrite Pro 1.0, 1.5; MS Word 4.0, 5.0, 5.1, 6.0; MS Word for Office 98 (8.0); MS Works 3.0, 4.0; RTF; Text; WordPerfect 2.0, 2.1, 3 - 3.5 enhanced.

Final Note

Because of its commitment to broaden and deepen the stream of communication about topics of interest to the profession, LASA has expended considerable energy in probing the best means of effecting the distribution of Congress papers. We thank you for the patience you have shown in the past, and encourage your continued cooperation.
EXHIBITORS AT LASA2000

Your colleagues can see your monographs and articles first hand if your publishers exhibit at LASA Congresses. Here is the final list for the Miami meeting. If your publishers are not aware of the LASA exhibit, you may wish to ask them to contact LASA’s book exhibit coordinator, Harve Horowitz, for information on how to secure exhibit space. Advertising in the LASA program is another valuable marketing opportunity. For exhibit space or advertising information your publishers may contact:

Mr. Harve Horowitz, Exhibit Promotions Plus Inc., 11620 Vixens Path, Ellicott City, MD 21402. Tel: 410-997-0763. Fax: 410-997-0764. E-mail: exhibit@erols.com.

LASA 21st Century Task Force
Workshop on Technology and Pedagogy
Hyatt Regency, Friday, March 17, 9:00 a.m.—6:00 p.m.

The 21st Century Task Force is sponsoring a day-long, hands-on workshop at the Miami congress on the pedagogical uses of information technology. Coordinated by Jack Child of American University, the workshop will feature presentations by task force members and other specialists who will share their experiences in developing Internet, World Wide Web, video, and other technological resources to enhance the teaching of Latin American studies. The room will be equipped with numerous personal computers for audience use in demonstrations and practical exercises. No prior experience is expected or required. Stop by for a few minutes, spend an hour or two, or stay all day—we think there will be something for everyone in this event, which is made possible by a grant to LASA from the Mellon Foundation.

For those of you who already have a course website—we’d like the workshop computers to feature linkages to as many of these sites as possible. If your Latin American studies course has a website that you are willing to have listed on the workshop computers, please e-mail the course title and site address to Roberto Espinoza at espinozz@fiu.edu.

The current schedule of presentations includes:

9:00 a.m. "Cyberciting and Cybersources: Teaching your students to use the Internet more effectively, to evaluate on-line information, and to cite on-line resources appropriately" (in English), Denise Johnson and team, Political Database of the Americas, Georgetown University.

10:30 a.m. "Cibercitas y Ciberfuentes: Cómo enseñar a sus estudiantes emplear el Internet más eficazmente; cómo evaluar la información disponible en línea, y cómo citar estas fuentes" (en español), Jorge Rebolledo Flores, Political Database of the Americas, Georgetown University.

12:00 noon. "Put your course on the Web with user-friendly courseware." By the time you leave this session you can have the basic elements of a course on the Web. If you bring a floppy with items such as a syllabus, assignments, questions, etc., you can begin loading them on your Web site. Jack Child, Director, Teaching Center, American University.

1:15 p.m. "Helping your students to use the Web to research human rights resources." David Block, Ibero-American Bibliographer, Cornell University.

2:30 p.m. "Using technology for collaborative teaching: the joint MA-level methods course in Latin American studies at UF and FIU." Doug Kineaid, Florida International University, and Charles Wood, University of Florida.

3:45 p.m. "Using presentation software (Power Point, with text and graphics) in your courses." Jack Child, Director, Teaching Center, American University.
Marjorie Agosín has just published a memoir entitled The Alphabet in My Hands: A Writing Life (Rutgers University Press, 1999). The book chronicles her life as a Jewish Latina in Chile and in the United States, and her evolution as a writer. Agosín, a professor of Spanish at Wellesley College, has written many works of fiction and poetry, and recently received a United Nations Leadership Award for Human Rights.

Frances Aparicio of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor is a co-winner of the Modern Language Association of America's ninth annual Katherine Singer Kovacs Prize for an outstanding book or books published in English in the field of Latin American and Spanish literatures and cultures. Her winning book is Listening to Salsa: Gender, Latin Popular Music, and Puerto Rican Cultures, published by Wesleyan University Press. Aparicio is professor of Spanish and American culture/Latino studies at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. She also has taught at the University of Arizona, Stanford University, Boston College, and Harvard University. She holds a PhD from Harvard University. In addition to winning a Ford Foundation Postdoctoral Fellowship, she has received honors for teaching, including the John D'Arms Distinguished Award for Graduate Mentoring in the Humanities and the Arthur F. Thurnau Professorship for Excellence in Undergraduate Teaching, both from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. She is author of over forty journal articles, contributions to edited collections, and book reviews, and has presented papers and addresses in the United States and in other countries. She also translates literary works and is involved in video and radio productions.

J. Patrice McSherry, Associate Professor of Political Science at Long Island University—Brooklyn, was named Associate Editor/Latin America for the Journal of Third World Studies by the executive council of the Association of Third World Studies during its annual conference, held in San Jose, Costa Rica in November 1999. She was also recently added to the Editorial Board of NACLA Report on the Americas. Her book, Incomplete Transition: Military Power and Democracy in Argentina, is being updated and will be translated and published by Editorial Sudamericana of Argentina.

Jacqueline Jiménez Polanco, Assistant Professor of Political Science at the Puerto Rican/Latin American Studies Department of John Jay College/CUNY, has published Los Partidos Políticos en la República Dominicana: Actividad Electoral y Desarrollo Organizativo (Santo Domingo: FLACSO, 1999). This book details the evolution of political parties in the Dominican Republic from the early nineteenth century through the present, with particular emphasis in the organizational development of the domanant parties: PRD, PR/PRSC, and PLD.

Silvio Torres-Saillant acaba de publicar El retorno de las yolas: Ensayos sobre diáspora, democracia y dominicanidad (Ediciones Librería La Trinitaria y Editora Manati, 1999). Este libro es el primer ejercicio intelectual sostenido dirigido a ubicar el papel de la diáspora en el futuro del pueblo dominicano. Torres-Saillant enseña letras anglofanas en Hostos Community College y City College en Nueva York, donde también dirige el Instituto de Estudios Dominicanos.

CALL FOR BIDS

The Latin American Studies Association (LASA) welcomes proposals from institutions that would be interested in serving as institutional host of the Secretariat of the Association for the period July 1, 2001, through June 30, 2006. Essential elements of any proposal should include arrangements for adequate office space and communication facilities, clerical staff support and for filling the position of Executive Director of LASA. Details are available on the LASA Internet site http://lasa.international.pitt.edu.

Proposals should be sent to LASA PRESIDENT FRANKLIN W. KNIGHT, DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY,JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY, 3400 NORTH CHARLES STREET, BALTIMORE MD 21218 on or before February 15, 2000. The review process will be completed and the results announced by July 1, 2000.
We are delighted to report that the LASA Endowment Fund has now topped the $3 million mark! As we toast the new millennium and all it may comprise for the Association, we salute our many members and friends who have enabled the Fund to grow, many with repeated gifts over the years. Since we began recording contributions to the Endowment Fund in 1991, we note the following commitments and designated gifts:

- 40 LASA Life Members
- 1,368 gifts to the General Endowment Fund
- 609 gifts to the Humanities Endowment Fund
- 7 gifts to the John Martz Fund

We toast as well the donors to the LASA Travel Fund, who, through more than 500 separate gifts, have directly supported the travel of Latin American scholars to LASA97, LASA98, and soon, LASA2000. They have enabled the programs to be enriched by our colleagues’ participation. Our grateful thanks to all on behalf of future scholars who will benefit from their thoughtfulness.

We are delighted to recognize these donors to the General Endowment Fund since our last report:

We count on your continued support in the year 2000. It can take many forms: Life Memberships, contributions to any of the funds, memorial gifts, or bequests. Please contact Sandy Klinzing at the Voluntary Support Office (412-648-1907) if you have any questions or to discuss your gift.

LASA MEETING SITES FOR 2001 AND 2003

As noted in the Summer 1997 issue of the Forum, the Association’s XXIII International Congress will be held in Washington, D.C. in 2001. We are also pleased to announce that the XXIV Congress will be in Dallas, Texas, in 2003.

Sites and Negotiations

LASA, like all entities conducting meetings for their memberships, faces tough negotiating as it deals with hotels and conventions. In times past some cities overbuilt their facilities, but that is true for only a few places today. As a result many hotels can virtually name their rates, so LASA must look long and hard to find hotels that our members can afford, especially since LASA Congresses are held in "high season." The Executive Council has asked that we meet from time to time in Washington D.C., and that is one of the more expensive cities. All things considered, the rates we negotiated are reasonable for the U.S. capital city.

The Washington D.C. Site

We are meeting September 6-8, 2001, in the Marriot Wardman Park, formerly the Sheraton Washington, where LASA held its September 1995 Congress. The hotel, already a pleasant facility when LASA met there, has recently undergone a $100,000,000 renovation. An attempt was made to blend Washington architectural styles on the exterior and improve the aesthetics and "flow" in the lobby, registration and dining areas. The Marriot Wardman Park is also now the largest hotel in the nation’s capital. There is much more, but LASA2001 attendees can see all this for themselves.

LASA has blocked more than 1,000 rooms on peak nights and rates are $170 single/double, $180 triple and $190 quadruple. (These rates represent a four percent annual increase over the prices the hotel charged LASA for the 1995 meeting).
Alternative accommodations will be announced in the preregistration packet.

Dallas in 2003

Over several months in 1999 LASA negotiated with two major hotels in Dallas. The Adam’s Mark Hotel was able to provide the Association the best conditions for its XXIV Congress, and a contract with that property was finally signed in September. The hotel has 1,842 guest rooms and suites and offers ample meeting and exhibit space for a LASA meeting. We have reserved 1,100 of the hotel’s guest rooms on the peak nights of Thursday and Friday, with a slightly smaller block on Wednesday and Saturday. Guaranteed 2003 rates are $145 single and double, and $180 triple and quadruple. We are confident that this is an excellent site for the 2003 encounter, which will be held March 27-29 of that year.

Remember to plan ahead and join us for both of these Congresses! ■

DON'T FORGET YOUR BADGE!

Please recall that all LASA2000 attendees must be registered for the meeting and wear their badges at all times. Failure to do so will significantly restrict your access to session and exhibits. These meetings are costly, and LASA depends on each and every person attending to help support the costs of the Congresses.

BRAZIL SECTION BOOK AND VIDEO AWARD

The LASA Section Brazil in Comparative Perspective welcomes nominations for its first annual Book and Video Award for Anthropology, Economics, Film Studies, History, Literature, Political Sciences, and Sociology. A distinguished publication that situates Brazil in the context of Latin American studies.

The purpose of the award is to encourage comparative scholarship in Brazilian studies. The award will be delivered in March 2000 during the LASA Conference for an outstanding book in any language or a publication in other media, including audio or film/video recordings.

Works first published since September 1998 are eligible to compete in 2000. Authors of nominated works need to be members of LASA and the Brazil Section. Works will be evaluated by a committee with at least one representative from the author's discipline. The recipient will be granted a cash award of $150. The address of the author and two copies of each nominated work must be received by February 10, 2000. Send copies to Prof. Lúcia Helena Costigan, Department of Spanish and Portuguese, The Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio 43210, U.S.A.

LETTERS

Dear Colleagues:

We desperately need your help to assist Venezuela in its hour of need.

In December, major floods and landslides hit the country, causing deaths in the thousands and homeless among hundreds of thousands. Several coastal towns were virtually wiped out because of the intense rains and many towns and hospitals are inaccessible because of road destruction. Helicopters have been the only way to reach some affected areas. This is Venezuela's worst natural disaster in more than 50 years.

There is a tremendous need for basic necessities, which can be purchased through your money donations to the Venezuelan Embassy in Washington. The address is 1099 30th St. NW, Washington, DC 20007. The phone number is (202) 342-2214. Please encourage your families, neighbors and friends to be generous. Thank you for helping Venezuela.

Sincerely,

Dear Friends:

As maybe you have heard, Venezuela is under an emergency situation due to severe flooding and mudslides, which have affected around 300,000 people. CANTV Servicios (major ISP, where I work), Cámar Venezuela de Comercio Electrónico (E-Commerce Venezuelan Chamber), Asociación Bancaria and Dividendo Voluntario para la Comunidad (a major non-profit organization helping the homeless) have set a website—http://www.help.org.ve—in which all interested people can donate on-line using their credit cards. No matter the amount of your donation, it will help us to get out of this situation.

Thanks in advance. If you want more information about the Venezuelan situation, you can go to any of the following websites:

Tulane University seeks applicants for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in Art History, Africa and African Diaspora in Latin America or the Caribbean. The start date is July 1, 2000. The successful applicant will teach introductory art history classes as well as African art and African Diaspora art in Latin America and/or the Caribbean. PhD is required. This position interfaces with several of Tulane's areas of strength and potential, specifically Latin American studies, Africa and African Diaspora studies, the Caribbean initiatives, and the Gulf South. The University seeks an individual who wants to make use of Tulane's resources, which include the Latin American Library, Amistad Research Center, Center for Latin American Studies, Cuban Institute, Newcomb College Center for Research on Women. Send a letter of application, CV, and three letters of recommendation to: Prof. Elizabeth Boone, Chair, Newcomb Art Department, Tulane University, New Orleans, LA 70118. Application review begins February 1, 2000. AA/EOE/WMA.

The International Relations program at Lynchburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Latin American Studies to start in the fall, 2000. The successful applicant must be able to teach World Regional Geography and some combination of Latin American Politics, Contemporary Latin American History, International Political Economy, and the Politics of Development. Individuals who meet these qualifications and can teach either a year-long introductory Spanish-language sequence or World History/Civilization are strongly encouraged to apply. Lynchburg College is a private, coeducational, residential college of 2,000 undergraduate and graduate students, affiliated with the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), a mainstream Protestant denomination. Lynchburg College is an equal opportunity employer and actively seeks diversity in its students, faculty, and administration. The application deadline is March 1, 2000. Send a letter of application, resume, three letters of recommendation, transcripts, syllabi and evidence of teaching effectiveness to Dr. Daniel G. Lang, Dean, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, Lynchburg College, 1501 Lakeside Dr., Lynchburg, VA 24501. Tel: 804-544-8614. E-mail: lang_d@mail.lychburg.edu.

The Latin American Studies Consortium of New England invites applications for the Title VI Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science and Latin American Studies. Subject to funding, this is a two-year position which may be extended to three years. Specializations may include Mexico, Brazil, Southern Cone, Andean countries, or cross-national comparative research. This position will involve teaching one semester in the Department of Political Science at the University of Massachusetts and one semester at Brown University, beginning September 1, 2000. The course load is two courses per semester; one course will be an inter-disciplinary advanced undergraduate seminar. Ph.D. or candidacy (ABD) and evidence of scholarship and teaching ability are necessary. For Ph.D., salary is $44,000 plus benefits. The University of Massachusetts and Brown University are EO/AA employers. Applications must be postmarked by March 15, 2000. Please send a letter of application, vitae, a writing sample and three letters of reference to the Search Committee, Center for Latin American, Caribbean and Latino Studies, 924 Thompson Hall, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

The University of Wisconsin-Madison has created three positions in the field of African Diaspora Studies. The aim is to develop and coordinate an innovative program of research and instruction in this field, building upon existing resources in various departments and programs. Successful candidates will be expected to conduct research and to participate in the building of a program on instruction in African Diaspora Studies, to seek extramural funding for their research programs, to teach undergraduate and graduate courses or develop new courses in their area of expertise, and to participate in faculty governance activities at departmental and campus levels. Faculty hired under this initiative will have primary appointments in campus departments. Candidates are sought irrespective of discipline or field, whose primary specialization lies in some aspect of African Diaspora Studies, focusing on the linkages between African and African Diasporic communities or among them, the dynamics of their forced or voluntary migration, their interactions and relations with societies of encounter, and the adaptation, reproduction, and transformation of African institutional, cultural and expressive forms in diasporic settings. Applications must include a CV, a statement describing research interests and accomplishments, as related to the specific descriptions above, and a sample of published or written work. Up to three letters of reference and/or names of references should also be included. Criteria for selection of finalists include research achievement and potential in the field of African Diaspora Studies, capacity to contribute actively to the development of an instructional program in the field, and ability to take part as appropriate in meeting the service and outreach missions of the home department and cluster. Send materials to Professor M. Crawford Young, African Diaspora Studies Recruitment Committee, University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1050 Bascom Mall, 110 North Hall, Madison, WI 53706-1389.

Bryant College invites applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor in Latin American History with a subfield in U.S. History, beginning August 1, 2000. The Ph.D. is required and salary range is $47,700-$57,743. Candidates must be prepared to help develop Latin American History courses and teach the U.S. History Survey. Review of applicants began December 1, 1999 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should send a letter of application, current c.v., evidence of excellence in research and teaching, and three letters of recommendation to Judy Barrett Litoff, Chair, History Search Committee, Bryant College, 1150 Douglas Pike, Smithfield, RI 02917. Bryant College is an AA/EOE. Qualified women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.
Cultural Anthropologist: Preference for applicants with an interregional approach to themes such as racial and ethnic minority relations and identities; migration-immigration patterns; rural-urban transformations; folklore; and conflict studies. The successful candidate will have fieldwork and language competency to explore relationships among peoples of difference cultures and world regions. We are particularly interested in candidates who can contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Race and Ethnic Studies, Asian Studies, Latin American Studies, and the Johnston Center for Individualized Study. We will begin reviewing applications on January 10. Send applications to: Dr. Sara Schoonmaker, Chair, Sociology and Anthropology Department.

Cultural Studies: Specialization in African-American or Caribbean literature and with training in history, anthropology, or sociology. This position includes developing integrative, interdisciplinary courses explicitly designed to cross disciplinary boundaries and to support the University’s Race and Ethnic Studies Program. Candidates whose primary work is in history, anthropology, sociology, or an interdisciplinary graduate program but who have extensive graduate training in literature are also encouraged to apply. We will begin reviewing applications December 15, but expect the initial review process to extend into January. Send applications to: Dr. William D. McDonald, Chair, Cultural Studies Search Committee, Beekman Hall.

Latin American Studies: Preference for applicants whose approach to teaching and scholarly work is interdisciplinary, and who would be interested in contributing to a newly organized and growing LAS program. We are particularly interested in hiring a colleague in business, economics, ethnomusicology, religious studies or art (art history, studio art, or art criticism/gallery director) who has expertise in Latin America. If candidate is interested, position may include release time to direct the LAS program. We will begin reviewing applications on January 24. Send applications to: Dr. Tracy Fitzsimmons, Chair, Latin American Studies Search Committee.

Race and Ethnic Studies: We seek candidates who can teach comparative and interdisciplinary Race and Ethnic studies courses at both lower and upper division levels and specialized courses that focus on the experiences of African Americans, Chicanos/Latinos, Native Americans or Asian Americans. Successful candidates will also be expected to teach courses that contribute to the programs across campus, to advise students, and to engage in an active research program. Area of specialty is open. We are particularly interested in hiring a colleague who can teach courses with emphases in literature, history, cultural studies (including film, theater, art), religious studies or social sciences. Review of applications will begin on January 10. Send applications to: Dr. Keith Osauma, Chair, Race and Ethnic Studies Search Committee.

All positions are tenure-track, open rank, beginning Fall 2000. Applicants should send a current curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching effectiveness, statement of teaching philosophy, an example of scholarly or creative work, and an official copy of graduate school transcripts. Applicants must have terminal degree in hand by time of appointment. Positions open until filled. We seek candidates with interest and demonstrated ability to work with a diverse student population. Redlands faculty have a six-course load per year, and are evaluated on the basis of teaching excellence, scholarly accomplishment, and service to the University. The University of Redlands is a private, comprehensive liberal arts institution located sixty miles east of Los Angeles, and is an Equal Opportunity Employer. We actively encourage applications from women and under-represented populations.
International Studies Professor

Macalester College is seeking to appoint a distinguished visiting senior scholar cum teacher in International Studies with an intimate knowledge of Latin America. The successful candidate will occupy the Hubert H. Humphrey Chair. We are looking for someone whose training and research are in one of these three disciplines: political science, sociology, or geography. The two-year appointment will begin September 1, 2000, with the possibility of renewal. The teaching load will consist of three courses per year (one in International Studies and two specific to Latin America). Other responsibilities include working very closely with students and contributing to the building of the Latin American and International Studies curriculum and to the general intellectual life of the College.

The Humphrey Chair provides remuneration corresponding to a full professorship and commensurate with experience, relocation expenses, and housing adjacent to campus. Support for research and academic travel is available from the College's other resources.

Macalester College, a highly selective, private liberal arts college enrolling 1800 students from 48 states and 70 foreign countries, is located in a residential neighborhood of the Twin Cities. Macalester College has a longstanding commitment to maintaining a multi-national, multi-ethnic community and, as an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer, welcomes and encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

The Wellcome Trust

Call for Research Proposals in Population Studies

Applications are invited for project and programme grant support for innovative research on issues relating to the consequences of population change. Proposals may address any relevant question, but applications are particularly encouraged in the following areas: demography; epidemiology; health and the environment; health economics; improvement of reproductive health in adolescents and adults; reproductive biology relevant to contraceptive research and development; safe motherhood, infant and child wellbeing; sexual health; social sciences.

Purpose: The Wellcome Trust particularly wishes to encourage proposals which establish and develop collaboration between researchers in restructuring or less developed countries, and those in internationally recognised centres of excellence. Interdisciplinary collaborations between demographers, social and environmental scientists, economists and biologists are also encouraged. Proposals may include provision for research training of investigators from restructuring and less developed countries at centres of research excellence. Applications are also invited for innovative research in population studies based in developed countries. The Wellcome Trust is particularly interested in receiving applications for research projects which would partner programmes of intervention supported by other donor organisations.

Eligibility: Applications may be received from any country, excluding researchers in North America, who are advised to approach agencies in their respective countries. The principal investigator should normally hold an established post in a university, medical school or similar research institution. In exceptional cases, applications from researchers based in non-governmental organisations may be considered if the applicant's background in research is of sufficient strength. The authors of the proposal are also expected to be the individuals who would actually perform the intended studies. Individuals working in the commercial sector are not eligible to apply.

Tenure and Value: Applications may include full direct project costs (e.g. research assistance, consumables, and equipment), but the Wellcome Trust is unable to consider requests for institutional overhead costs. As a research funding organisation the Trust is unable to support health care or educational interventions per se. It is also unable to provide funds for disbursement by other funding agencies. Applications will be considered throughout the year. At least six months should be allowed between submission of full applications and the proposed start date.

Preliminary application forms and further information about this scheme and the Population Studies Programme are available from: The Grants Section (Population Studies), The Wellcome Trust, 183 Euston Road, London NW1 2SS, UK. Established in 1988, the Reebok Human Rights Award honors young people from the United States and around the world who have, often against great odds, made significant contributions to the cause of human rights. The purpose of the Award is to shine a positive, international light on the awardees and to support their work in human rights. Award recipients receive $50,000 from the Reebok Human Rights Foundation for the human rights organizations of their choice. Award candidates must be 30 years of age or younger on December 31, 2000. Award candidates cannot advocate violence or belong to an organization that advocates violence. Award candidates must be working on an issue that directly relates to the United Nations' "Universal Declaration of Human Rights." Woman and men of all races, ethnic groups, citizenships and religions are eligible. The Award is given to an individual, based on that individual's personal achievement and commitment. It is not given to groups of people, organizations, or as a memorial award to people who have died. Nominations must be received by February 15, 2000. For more information, contact the Reebok Human Rights Program at tel: 781-401-4969; fax: 781-401-4806. E-mail: humanrights@reebok.com. Website: www.reebok.com/humanrights.

The John Carter Brown Library at Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island and the Department of Hispanic Studies at Connecticut College in New London, Connecticut, will award a joint research fellowship and visiting professorship for one semester during the 2000-2001 academic year. Applications are invited from established scholars who are citizens of Spain and Spanish America. The fellow will conduct research at the Library, the holdings of which are concentrated on the history of the Western Hemisphere during the colonial period (ca. 1492 to ca. 1825), with particular strength in the history of the Spanish Empire. In general, the Library supports research on the European discovery, exploration, settlement, and development of the Americas; the indigenous response to the European conquest; the African contribution to the development of the hemisphere; and all aspects of European relations with the New World. At Connecticut College, the fellow will teach, in Spanish, one course pertinent to the fellow's research and appropriate for undergraduate students majoring in Hispanic Studies. It is anticipated that the JCB/Connecticut College fellow will reside in Providence for four continuous months and will commute weekly to New London. The stipend for the semester is $10,000 plus an allowance for roundtrip travel and commuting. The deadline for receipt of applications and references is March 1, 2000. For further information or to request application materials, please contact Director, John Carter Brown Library, Box 1894, Providence, RI 02912. Tel: 401-863-2725 Fax: 401-863-3477. Postdoctoral Research Training Fellowships in Population Studies

The Wellcome Trust offers Research Training Fellowships in areas relevant to Population Studies including: demography; epidemiology; health and the environment; health economics; improvement of reproductive health in adolescents and adults; reproductive biology relevant to contraceptive research and development; safe motherhood, infant and child wellbeing; sexual health; social sciences.

Purpose: To provide postdoctoral basic and social scientists, or medical graduates of up to six years’ research experience, with an opportunity to become independent research scientists through high quality fundamental or applied research in population studies.

Eligibility: Applications may be received from any country, excluding researchers in North America, who are advised to approach agencies in their respective countries.

Tenure: Awards will be offered for a maximum of four years in a university or medical school setting. These non-renewable awards are intended to provide a period of research training at an internationally recognised centre of excellence (in the applicant’s country or abroad), which may be followed by up to two years’ support within the four year period at an approved (research) laboratory, which will normally be in the applicant’s country. Candidates wishing to conduct their studies in one country may request support for a maximum of three years.

Provisions: Salaries will be paid on the Wellcome Trust scale according to age, experience, and the cost of living in the country in which the candidate will be working. Fellowship support can include funding for project-dedicated expenses and travel. Where appropriate, consideration may be given to the expense of attending a course leading to a recognised qualification in a discipline central to the Fellowship research programme.

Deadlines: Applications will be considered throughout the year and at least six months should be allowed between submission of full applications and the proposed start date.

Application Procedure: Candidates are required to make their own arrangements with the institutions in which they propose to work and written confirmation of these arrangements, including a letter of support from a suitable sponsor at the host institution, should be forwarded to the Trust.

Preliminary application forms and further information about this scheme and the Population Studies Programme are available from: The Grants Section (Population Studies), The Wellcome Trust, 183 Euston Road, London NW1 2BE, UK. Tel: +44 (0) 207 611 7236/7264; Fax: +44 (0) 207 611 7288. E-mail: population@wellcome.ac.uk Web site: www.wellcome.ac.uk/International Scientific enquiries may be addressed to Dr Zebbee Iram, Scientific Programme Officer, at the same address.

NB: Applicants may not apply for more than one Trust fellowship scheme at any one time.

The Wellcome Trust

Research Training Fellowships Through Master’s Programmes in Demography, Population or Reproductive Health

As part of the Wellcome Trust’s Population Studies initiative, nominations are invited for three Fellowships, which will offer one year’s training at Master’s level in a centre of research excellence, followed by one year’s support for a research project in the Fellow’s home country. Research projects in the following areas are particularly encouraged: demography; epidemiology; health and the environment; health economics; improvement of reproductive health in adolescents and adults; reproductive biology relevant to contraceptive research and development; safe motherhood, infant and child wellbeing; sexual health; social sciences.

Candidate Eligibility: Candidates should be residents of developing countries in Africa, Asia or Latin America, or the restructuring countries of central and eastern Europe, including the former Soviet Union. They should be educated at least to first degree level in a relevant subject, and hold a position with a university or government department, or a non-governmental organisation with a remit to implement programmes in population and reproductive health.

Nomination: Candidates must be sponsored by the centre where they wish to train, and their local employer, who should also guarantee that the candidate will be given sufficient time to pursue a research project during the second year of the award. Each institution may nominate no more than two candidates. Direct applications from individuals will not be considered.

Tenure: Awards will be offered for a maximum of two years’ duration. Exceptional Fellows may be offered the opportunity to extend their training to PhD level.

Value: Whilst undertaking their Master’s training, Fellows will receive a stipend according to age, experience, and local costs of living. Support may be requested for approved tuition fees, up to a maximum of 12 months, which should cover all the costs associated with the course. For the research project in the second year, support may be requested for materials, consumables and (where appropriate) equipment and field assistance.

The Trust does not provide support for undesigned institutional overheads.

The closing date for receipt of applications is Monday 17 April 2000. Late applications will not be considered. Decisions will be notified in the summer of 2000.

Applications forms for candidates may be obtained from the address given below.

Nominations and requests for further information should be sent to:

organizations, foreign policy making, and the U.S. role in the global economy. Citizens of any Latin American or Caribbean country may apply. Because all instruction will be provided in English, Seminar participants must be able to speak and read easily in that language. The criteria for selection are as follows: professors or researchers who seek to improve their capacity to teach or do research on the United States, and to update their knowledge of that country; students who have completed at least one year of study at the graduate level, of any of the social sciences or history, at their home institution; students who have been accepted for graduate study in the social sciences or history at a U.S. university during the coming academic year; non-academic professionals working in private research institutes, government, business, journalism, law, and nongovernmental organizations, as well as other individuals involved in such fields as ecology, human rights, and poverty alleviation and whose responsibilities relate to the United States. A limited number of financial awards will be available to participants. These awards cover registration fees, housing on the UCSD campus, meals, access to library facilities, reading materials required for the Seminar, and limited medical insurance. Budget limitations do not allow for transportation expenses. We invite applications from individuals who can provide their own financial support to cover all or part of the expenses described above (approximately US $5,500). We also encourage applicants to seek support from their home institutions or from other sources. The selection of all participants is based on merit. For further information and application materials, please contact the Center: Tel: 619-534-4503. Fax: 619-534-6447. E-mail: usmex@ucsd.edu. Application forms can be downloaded from the Center’s webpage: http://www.usmex.ucsd.edu. The absolute deadline to submit applications for this competition is March 10, 2000.

El Instituto de Estudios Peruanos, con el auspicio de la Rockefeller Foundation Fellowships in the Humanities, convoca a investigadores mayores y jóvenes al segundo concurso de becas del proyecto Globalización, diversidad cultural y redefinición de identidades en los Países Andinos. Los proyectos de investigación deberán centrarse en los procesos de redefinición de identidades actualmente en curso en Ecuador, Perú y Bolivia en el contexto de globalización. El programa privilegiará los estudios sobre etnicidad, región, género y generación, así como los actores y movimientos sociales que se desarrollan alrededor de esos ejes y su impacto en la diversidad cultural, en las concepciones hegemónicas de ciudadanía y en el carácter mismo de los estados nacionales centroandinos. En tanto estos países constituyen un ámbito poco explorado desde una perspectiva comparada, el programa alentará la presentación de proyectos que incluyan trabajo en más de un país. Podrán postular a las becas los investigadores mayores (seniors) y jóvenes (juniors) que estén trabajando los temas ejes de la convocatoria. Los investigadores que desarrollen su actividad profesional en instituciones ubicadas fuera de la región andina, deberán acreditar su afiliación a alguna institución académica de Ecuador, Perú o Bolivia. El programa ofrece tres becas de

The University Center for International Studies at UNC-Chapel Hill invites Fellowship applications from scholars with Ph.D. degrees and from non-academic practitioners and artists for our Rockefeller Humanities Program "Creating the Transnational South." This project addresses political, social and cultural changes associated with globalization and economic restructuring in the southern United States due to new flows of people and capital between the North American South and Mexico, Central America, the Caribbean, and elsewhere. Fellows will contribute to our seminar and, at their choice, to other seminars and workshops at UNC and in the Research Triangle region of North Carolina. Fellows receive a stipend of approximately $30,000, health insurance, plus partial assistance with relocation expenses. To apply for this Fellowship, please send a letter describing your project (not to exceed 4 single-spaced pages), one writing sample (or brief portfolio equivalent for artists), CV, and three professional letters of reference to: Dr. Niklaus Steiner, "Transnational South", UCIS, 223 E. Franklin St., Chapel Hill, NC 27599-5145. The deadline is March 1, 2000. For more information, contact nsteiner@unc.edu or visit www.unc.edu/depts/ucis.

The National Endowment for the Humanities announces the May 1, 2000 postmark deadline for applications for Fellowships for university teachers and for college teachers and independent scholars. NEH Fellowships provide opportunities for individuals to pursue advanced research in the humanities. Research projects may contribute to scholarly knowledge or to general public understanding of the humanities. The tenure period is from six to twelve months, the earliest beginning date is January 2001, and the maximum stipend is $30,000. For application materials and information, visit the Endowment’s web site at http://www.neh.gov or call 202-606-8467.

A Call for Papers has been issued for a conference entitled "Interactions: Regional Studies, Global Processes, and Historical Analysis," to be held March 1-3, 2001, at the Library of Congress. Organized by the American Historical Association, the World History Association, the Middle East Studies Association, the African Studies Association, the Latin American Studies Association, the Conference on Latin American History, the Association for Asian Studies, the Community College Humanities Association, and the Library of Congress, this conference aims to go beyond traditional area studies and to cross the usual national, geographical, and cultural boundary lines of scholarship by taking explicitly comparative, cross-cultural, systematic, global, or other appropriate approaches. A major purpose is to explore contemporary globalization in historical context and the historical processes that drive globalization, as well as the way in which the current dialectic of globalization and fragmentation affects the definition of areas and regions. Each of the three conference days will focus on a particular rubric. Day One: movement of peoples, ideas, and goods; material interactions and their sites. Day Two: Networks and connections beyond the nation-state. Day Three: Reconfigurations of "area" and "state," their implications and interactions. More specifically, but not exclusively, papers might consider some of the following themes and their possible combinations: Politics: Dominant forms, countervailing forces, the rise and fall of power centers. Alternatives to national states as units of historical analysis, changing historical definitions of regions and sub-regions and their historically changing relationship to one another in different world orders. Variants of imperialism and the place that different regions have had in them. Economics: Regional and social division of labor, social change, formation of "world systems," uneven development. Cross-cultural trade and its effects: sites of trade, mechanisms of trade such as brokers, trade diasporas, conventions governing exchange. Imperialism and colonialism. Environmental, ecological, biological exchanges. Social organization: Global hierarchies of class, gender, race and their historical variations, and the effects of contemporary globalization. Migrations, diasporas, and a gendered analysis of these. Civil society and human rights, the political valence of non-governmental organizations. Culture: Universalism vs. multiculturalism: hegemonic ideologies such as religion, nationalism, free market, and the resistance to these. Technological transfers, cultural exchanges and syncretism as expressions of dominance, of subversion, and of convergence. Ethnogenesis. Postcolonial issues of representation and identity politics. Paper proposals of one or two pages along with a brief curriculum vitae of no more than two pages should be sent, preferably electronically to ddoyle@theaha.org. Otherwise by mail to Debbie Doyle, American Historical Association, 400 A Street, SE, Washington, DC 20003-3889. Deadline: March 15, 2000.

The forty-fifth annual Seminar on the Acquisition of Latin American Library Materials (SALALM) will be held May 27-31, 2000 in Long Beach, CA. The Conference theme will be "Andean Studies: New Trends and Library Resources," and will be co-hosted by the University of California, Los Angeles Library and Latin American Center, which is celebrating its 40th anniversary in 1999/2000. The meeting will consider topics related to the social, political, economic, literary, and artistic history of the Andean region and other parts of Latin America. Information on the content of the program can be obtained from César Rodriguez, President, SALALM, Yale University Library Latin American Collection, 130 Wall Street, New Haven, CT 06520. Fax: 203-432-7231. E-mail: cesar.rodriguez@yale.edu. SALALM Conference homepage: http://www.library.ucla.edu/libraries/url/colls/latinamerica/salalm/index.htm.
The International Society for Luso-Hispanic Humor Studies solicits proposals for papers, panels and sessions on any aspect of Hispanic humor for its annual conference, to be held September 28-30, 2000 at the Delta Hotel, Montreal, Quebec, Canada. The event is co-sponsored by McGill University's Department of Hispanic Studies. Papers on theoretical, social, cultural, literary, artistic and political issues are welcome. Preference will be given to papers with a minimum of jargon and in language accessible to the non-specialist. Presentations may be in either English or Spanish. Reading time will be limited to twenty minutes. A selected proceedings will be published from papers given at the conference. Conference participants must be members of the International Society for Luso-Hispanic Humor Studies. Three copies of abstracts, not to exceed 400 words, should be sent to Dr. K. M. E-mail: ksibbald@leacock.lan.mcgill.ca. Abstracts are due by March 1, 2000.

Wesleyan University seeks articles for an edited volume on religion and the social construction of "race" in the Americas. The volume explores the complex and unstable articulations of "race" and "religion" that have helped produce "black," "white" and other racialized identities and communities in the United States and selected societies throughout the Americas. This projected volume will explore: 1) how the shifting categories of race and religion have defined, and been defined by, relations of power and inequality; 2) how racial and religious identities shape the everyday lives and political struggles of selected movements and communities; and 3) how racialized and marginalized communities use religious discourses to negotiate or contest the persistent power of "race" and racisms in societies structured by inequality. Work in history, ethnography, cultural studies and sociology is welcomed. Please send abstracts or inquiries by March 15, 2000 to Elizabeth McAlister, Dept. of Religion, Wesleyan University, Middletown, CT 06459. E-mail: emcalister@wesleyan.edu OR Henry Goldschmidt, 344 Dean St., Brooklyn, NY 11217. E-mail: henry.goldschmidt@nyu.edu

Institutional Adaptation and Innovation in Rural Mexico

edited by Richard Snyder

Contributors to this volume explore the complex processes of institutional transformation that were unleashed in rural Mexico by the government’s massive program of market-oriented economic reforms in the 1990s.

Perhaps the most important finding that emerges is that instead of paving the way for the triumph of free market forces, neoliberal reforms in rural Mexico triggered the construction of new institutions to regulate the market, a finding that casts the transformations of the past decades in a new light.

The contributors have taken an important first step toward helping us understand the different kinds of new institutions that have replaced those destroyed by neoliberal reforms.

Subnational Politics and Democratization in Mexico

edited by Wayne Cornelius, Todd Eisenstadt & Jane Hindley

"This important book should be required reading for those in Washington and on Wall Street who will be nervously watching Mexico’s presidential elections in July 2000. The volume’s distinguished contributors examine the growing tension between Mexico’s national transition to democracy and the resilience of authoritarian, antidemocratic pockets linked to the government party, the PRI."

— Foreign Affairs

Contributors highlight the growing disjuncture between Mexico’s accelerated transition to democracy at the national level and what is occurring at the state and local levels in many parts of the country.

Drawing on recent field research in ten Mexican states, the authors show how the increasingly uneven character of democratization in Mexico can be a significant obstacle to the completion of the process in an expeditious and low-conflict manner.

Sustainable Development in San Diego–Tijuana

edited by Mark J. Spalding

The authors examine factors affecting the prospects for sustainable development in San Diego–Tijuana: economic integration; links between growth, quality of life, and the environment; post–NAFTA institutional and policy directions; and the roles of NGOs, universities, and the private sector.

Everyday Life and Politics in Nineteenth-Century Mexico

Men, Women, and War

Mark Wasserman
Available in April 2000

“At long last, a clear-headed, non-romanticized, and non-adversarial analysis of everyday life and politics across the vast sweep of a century of change and rebirth. This is a first-rate book, expert and highly accessible.”—Professor Timothy E. Anna, University of Manitoba
